

Islip, NY – Islip Town Supervisor Phil Nolan recently met with board members of the Hauppauge Library to turn over a one-acre parcel of land owned by the Town to the Library. This piece of property is located at Hidden Pond Park and will be home to the new Hauppauge Library.

“We are pleased to have come to an agreement to provide the Hauppauge Public Library a permanent home,” said Supervisor Nolan. “This is a beautiful piece of land that will serve as a wonderful location for residents and students of Hauppauge to grab a book and take a stroll through the park.”

Pictured (left to right) are Hauppauge Public Library Board of Trustees Andrew Black, Ralph Plotke, Director Judith Berry, Carol Poma, Bob Druckenmiller, Steve Bard, and Islip Town Supervisor Phil Nolan.